

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR CHALLENGES STATE EMPLOYEES TO &quot;REACH FOR THE STARS&quot; AND RAISE $10 MILLION FOR CHARITY

Garamendi joins Governor Schwarzenegger in celebrating a 50-year tradition of making a difference

SACRAMENTO - Lieutenant Governor John Garamendi joined the United Way, state employees, community leaders and more than 100 local nonprofit organizations, for the annual California State Employees Charitable Campaign (CSECC) kick-off breakfast. Echoing the campaign theme, &quot;Reaching for the Stars,&quot; Garamendi challenged state employees to raise $10 million, which would surpass the $7.7 million they raised last year.

&quot;By completing a simple pledge form today, we have the unique opportunity to work together to change lives forever. I encourage all State employees to join me in supporting the 2007 Charitable Campaign and raise $10 million. Your generous commitment today will help build strong and health communities and provide assistance to many needy Californians,&quot; said Garamendi, Vice-Chair of this year's campaign.

For 50 years, the California State Employees Charitable Campaign (CSECC) has provided state employees with the opportunity to donate through payroll deduction to a non-profit organization of their choice. More than $77 million has been raised by CSECC statewide since it was established in 1957.
